A HUSBAND ARRESTED.—Tuesday, Albany Democrat: This noon Mrs. F. L. Dumont and a small child in a baby buggy were at the depot at an early hour. The woman's face was red with the effects of crying. When the Portland train came in, Mr. Dumont appeared and boarded the rear car. Mrs. Dumont followed in anger, and Dumont endeavored to slam the door in her face, and keep her out; but she forced her way inside, where her husband shoved her into a corner of the car, creating great excitement. Marshal Lee appeared and arrested Dumont. Mrs. Dumont caught hold of her six-year-old boy, which was what she was after, and wheeling her other child disappeared down the street victorious for the time being.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

A Good Attendance and Keen Interest Manifested. The sessions of the State Sunday school convention at the M. E. church in this city are adding not a little to the interest in the work in our city, but its influences will be felt all over the state. The convention is composed of an eager, earnest and happy body of people, all of whom are striving for the constant betterment of their fellow men.

This forenoon the general field superintendent, Mr. Reynolds, took occasion to state that it was an exceptional convention. He had attended many, and was familiar with the work in every state, but thought the officers of the Oregon association, especially the secretary, could not be excelled in good work. He also mentioned that while Marion county had no regular organization her reports were the best in the state.

President Newlin announced the appointment of committees as follows: On resolutions—Prof. Atwood, Mr. McCleary, Rev. J. Hoberg, Mrs. Farnum, O. C. Emery.

BOY TRAMPS.—That is the heading of the Eugene Guard to the following item, which we hope will serve as a warning to other boys, that tramp life is a rocky experience from the start: Marshal Eastland, last evening, after dark, discovered two well dressed boys, aged about 12 years, consorting with a gang of tramps camped near the university. He proceeded to interview them, and found out their names were Redfield and Allen, that they hailed from Albany and were en route for the Golden State. He brought them to town and telegraphed the authorities at Albany, who replied that the parents of the boys were disinclined to have them returned, hence they were discharged from custody.

A CHILD BURNED.—Last Sunday the fifteen months old child of Mr. Wm. Brenner, of Seio, was left in a room alone for a moment, while its mother went into another room. On returning she found the little fellow in flames which caught as the child walked past the fire place. The little one was instantly wrapped in a dress, but was so badly burned around the neck and face that it was feared it would not recover, but at last reports it was thought to be out of danger.—Albany Democrat.

D., the popular theological and Christian evilec lecturer for the Willamette university will deliver three of his most interesting and popular lectures in the chapel of the university Saturday, May 5th, 8 p. m., Sunday 8th, 2:30 p. m., and Monday, May 7th, 8 p. m. Oregon Crops.

The U. S. weather bureau sends out the following bulletin on Western Oregon crops, dated May 1st:

The first three or four days of the week were considered excellent growing weather, favorable in every respect for the advancement of farming operations. The latter portion of the week was characterized by frequent showers which were looked upon with favor only in the southern counties. Crops in the Umpqua and Rogue River valleys were materially benefited by them. In other sections of Western Oregon the showers prevented the seeding of grain and garin work and in some sections of Washington county there is fear of seed rotting in the ground if the cool showery weather continues. The season is backward in the coast counties except in Curry, where the season is several weeks in advance of the season of 1893. The most favorable reports are made of the fall sown grain on upper land. Grass crops are looking well generally and hops are making such progress as encourages the grower. The hop crop is receiving much attention. It is becoming a popular crop in nearly all sections of the Willamette valley and is being introduced in the eastern portions of the state. Fruit trees are blooming in the northeast coast counties. All fruit trees are in full bloom in the southern counties. It is now ascertained that the reported injury to fruit from frosts in the southern counties was slight. There are excellent prospects for the fruit crop in all sections. In Clackamas county there are some caterpillars appearing in the orchards. The acreage of spring sown grain will be up to the average in southern Oregon, but in the Willamette valley it will fall very much below. Early potatoes are coming up. Strawberry vines are blooming in all sections and a large crop is expected. Stock is thriving on excellent pastures. The general desire is for less rain and warmer weather. The prospects are good and farmers are cheerful.

THE CHICAGO LADIES.—The entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. last evening more than pleased all who attended. As artists in their line the Ladies Quartette rank high. In addition to this they possess the happy faculty of pleasing their hearers. The house was packed to its utmost and everyone is loud in praise.

POSTOFFICE ROBBERY.—Mr. Porter came in from Astoria this morning and reported that the postoffice at that place had been robbed last night. The parties opened the safe and secured $40, besides some stamps, but did no further damage. The suspicious of the people are aroused as to committed the offense.

HARDING VS. HARDING.—This case, which is by the heirs of the estate of Lars Harding vs. E. J. Harding, and involves the title to nearly a thousand acres of fine land, is on trial this afternoon before Judge Burnett in chamber.

International Bi-metallism. A London merchant writes his brother in Seattle as follows: "HAINES, BACHELOR & Co., 'LONDON, March 28, 1894. '110 Cannon street, E. C. 'The principal nations of the world have kicked out silver, and that means that we have so much less money in circulation and it is not enough to go round. Oh for the day when international bi-metallism is introduced; things will hum again, all prices will go up, just as all prices have fallen ever since France shut her mint and silver could no longer be freely coined. It is no good for the United States to try and bolster up silver alone, or for any other power to try that game alone, it will hurt the biggest of them, but if they join hands then comes the good time. England has hitherto stood in the way and she began the gold game, and as long as no one else tried it she scored, but next Germany tried it and the beginning of the end began. Then most of the other countries joined in the scramble and now silver has gone to 27d, and there is not gold enough for any one of them. Here in London there is not gold enough in the Bank of England to pay one day's business alone. We have to take paper, checks, etc., which are not represented by any coin at all, and if we all tried to cash them the Bank of England would stop payment in an hour. Rub it in! Rub it in! Bi-metallism is salvation!"

WARNING! To the Ruptured People of Linn, Marion and Lane Counties.

One Dr. R. B. Clark, who was formerly with the O. E. Miller Co., of Portland, Oregon, for a short time, has not been with the company for nearly two months past. There is not a physician in Oregon who is using our method of treatment for rupture, and cannot do so, for the O. E. Miller Company's treatment is protected by Letters Patent and is a profound secret known only to the O. E. Miller Co. and so far it has baffled the best efforts of the World's most eminent physicians and chemists.

The O. E. Miller Company's treatment for rupture is painless and permanent in cure, no matter how long standing, and their employees furnish credentials.

TOM REED'S VINDICATION.

They said you were a tyrant, Tom, Because you ruled that they Who in their seats were sitting, Tom Had not yet gone away.

Your quorum they derided, Tom, Because you counted it, And would not let them monkey, Tom, With you a little bit.

They tried to grow indignant, Tom, In passion sawed the air, Because in public business, Tom, You made them all play fair.

Conditions now are different, Tom, On their foot is the boot, And changed are their expressions, Tom, Their purposes to suit.

They say they didn't mean it, Tom, Their wrath was just pretense, And that your famous ruling, Tom, Did not give real offense.

They're going to count a quorum, Tom, Just as you used to do, For that's the only method, Tom, To put the business through.

They're going to vindicate you, Tom, And eat the dish of crow, For they have been preparing, Tom, For them a year ago.

A NEEDED VIRTUE.

The people of France seem always to have plenty of savings. How rapidly the large indemnity to Germany was paid after the war of the third Napoleon is still remembered by the people. Recently the city of Paris decided to issue a loan of $40,000,000, two and one-half percent on a gold basis. The total subscriptions to this amounted to $3,820,000,000, or nearly a hundred times the amount called for. France seems to be one vast savings bank in spite of the proverbial gaiety of its people. Its people seem to have the art of saving down to a fine point. It is a trait that can be followed with advantage by the people of this country, with many of whom extravagance and wastefulness run riot.—Des Moines Register.

The French people have the greatest inducements to become savers. As is seen by the above, when the Republic of France wants some money she issues bonds and sells them to her own people. Although they bear but a low rate of interest, the citizen buys them eagerly with every dollar he can save. In this country when a few million bonds are issued they are sold to John Bull, Rothschild & Co., who use them as a club over our nation. In the meantime what few dollars our common people save up are forced into banks, or stockings without interest, and there is little encouragement offered to the saver. This French system of taking the poor man in as a partner in the government, as it were, has not a little to do with bringing about the intense patriotism of which we are so proud in the citizens of that republic. If the Coxseys who are today marching through our land, each had a little direct interest in this government, they would be much more careful about committing depredations against the government. A man with a ten dollar bond against his country would take as keen an interest in its welfare as the millionaire bondholder, and he could render as great service for its protection. Give our common people a chance and they will save.

From the Woodburn Independent.

An effort is being made to establish a kindergarten school in this city. It is well worth a trial. It should receive the encouragement of our people. It may be a new thing to some of our citizens, and they may want to know something more about it. We will give an account of their origin and a description of them as far as we are able next week.

Two national assemblies will, this year, be held in Oregon. The Cumberland Presbyterian General Assembly will meet in Eugene, and the United Presbyterian General Assembly will meet in Albany. These annual gatherings are held during the month of May when Oregon puts on her most charming dress and wears her most bewitching smile. Our visitors will return east with glowing reports of Oregon as did those of the Presbyterian General Assembly which met in Portland two years ago.

The Populist newspaper field does not seem to be very profitable. The Oregon City Herald after being seized by the sheriff when only three weeks old was resuscitated by a joint stock company. They employed a traveling printer who in turn employed two others. The three then hauled down the names of the company and substituted their own, and are in full possession.

Outlets of Live Slave.

A French missionary is responsible for this cannibal story from Africa. Certain tribes living on the banks of the Ubangi eat out a monotonous vegetable diet by joints of human flesh, and slaves are especially fattened up for sale in the local market. The usual system followed by dealers is to exhibit the slave alive, marking off with a piece of chalk the various fillets and cutlets ordered by their customers. The slave is not killed until the last pound of him is sold, and then he is cut up and distributed according to orders. The priest, a certain Father Allaire, was foolishly shocked at this economic practice, but he was evidently circumspect in expressing his feelings upon the subject when on the banks of the Ubangi. Possibly it occurred to him that the cannibals might have regarded French missionary as an agreeable and wholesome change of diet, and under such circumstances who would not be circumspect?—Pall Mall Gazette.

Able Snorers in the Senate.

Several of the senators take daily naps on the lounges in the cloakrooms. Generally about 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon the lounges are all occupied by sleeping statesmen, some of whom snore so loud that the doors have to be closed that the rumble may not be heard in the galleries. The champion snorer is Senator Coke of Texas. He makes the windows rattle when he is doing his best. But Mr. Davis of Minnesota is not far behind him, and when Mr. Stewart of Nevada rolls over on his back, as he sometimes does, the pages creep in quietly to listen, for he sings a peculiar song in his sleep. Mr. Bate of Tennessee draws a long, deep note, and his colleague, Mr. Harris, has a high tenor, with a funny rattle. When they are both going it at their best speed on lounges side by side, the duet is worth hearing.—Chicago Record.

Peach Fever.

Many women are employed in the fruit packing and canning establishments of Delaware and Maryland, and almost all of them have to pass through a period of inoculation, as it were, involving more or less suffering from what is known as "peach fever." This singular disease takes two forms. The psychotic or mental variety produces mental exaltation and absurdly unwarranted grandeur of imagination and generally attacks persons of naturally imaginative temperaments. The other and commoner variety is simply an irritation, sometimes amounting to inflammation, of the skin and mucous membranes. It shows itself externally, chiefly on the forehead, neck and arms. Thin skinned young women of nervous temperament suffer most from it, men and older women seeming less susceptible.—Philadelphia Press.

Imitating the Imitator.

It is astonishing what a rage there is for imitations. Great men have long been so slavishly imitated by their inferiors that the copyists begin to fancy they are better than the originals. There is nothing new, but the cultivation of the mimetic power has recently almost developed into a fine art. We have all enjoyed the cleverness, the grace and the exactness with which Miss Cissy Loftus impersonates her brethren and sisters of the profession. But now we read that Miss Letty Lind gave an imitation of Miss Cissy Loftus giving an imitation of Miss Letty Lind. It is difficult to say when this kind of thing will stop.—London Graphic.
